

Project Manager (m/w/d)

Location: Berlin, Germany Part Time to Full Time

About us:

We're a young, fast-growing company based in Berlin, led by experienced entrepreneurs. Our mission is to transform and empower people and organizations. We do this using Virtual Reality experiences and ethical Artificial Intelligence. You can learn more about us at <https://wondder.io/>

We are currently looking for a Project Manager (m/w/d). You will be part of our project delivery team dedicated to managing client projects across the world (no traveling required).

What works well with our team and this role:

- Commitment: taking full responsibility for your work; we are in this together and we do our best
- Customer Collaboration: listening to customers and caring for them
- Quality: delivering the best results in the given circumstances
- Entrepreneurship: getting things done
- Open Communication: talking - open, respectfully; no holding back, no beating around the bush

Needed basics:

- Project management experience: accurate, well organized, independent, refreshing in communication
- Good command of business English
- Availability of 2-3 days per week

What will give you the edge in the application process:

- Having your own thoughts and points of view, filtered through humbleness - clearly understanding that you do not know everything (nobody does)
- Interest in personal development and having your own practice

What we offer:

- Working directly with the founders: experienced, well-balanced, no-nonsense people
- The highest degree of autonomy: you deliver, you do it your way
- Engagement with the core topic of all times - personal development - and the hottest technologies around: Virtual Reality and Artificial Intelligence
- A diverse, international team, driven by the AQUAL 6 P's: The Parity of Planet, People and Profit - with Passion and Purpose

We particularly encourage applications from women, disabled and Black, Asian, and Minority Ethnic (BAME) candidates, as these groups are underrepresented throughout the technology industry.

Send your application to:

daniel@wondder.io